SHOP TALK
By RAY BROOKS
Jack Miller, genial proprietor of the Miller Furniture Co., announced yesterday that Gaston J. Aroq (pronounced Ark), had been appointed manager of his store.
Mr. Aroq, a brother of Mrs. Miller, has lived in Torrance for several years and old timers will remember him as a past manager of the old Humpty-Dumpty market. For the past six years he has been employed as manager of a Roberts' market in Inglewood. The furniture business in Torrance so appealed to him, however, that he resigned his position with Roberts and accepted the management at Miller's.
Mr. Aroq plans great things. Stocks will be increased and the store changed about and renovated. Right now the new manager is busily occupied planning a big August clearance and anniversary sale to take place later this month. Watch for the announcements. I'm sure they will carry important money-saving news.

Savings Bonds Are Increasing In Popularity
The increasing popularity of the United States savings bonds on sale at postoffices, is attested by figures released this week by Wayne C. Taylor, acting secretary of the treasury.
On July 10 sales passed the one-half billion mark, maturity value. Sales over 1935 have shown an increase of 50 percent up to July 6. However, sales have increased amazingly in July so that average daily sales for this month show about 75 percent increase over July, 1935.
As no individual may purchase more than $10,000 worth in one year, the sale of one-half billion dollars' worth of bonds has been attained only through wide distribution.

Bonds mature exactly ten years from date for a sum one third more than the purchase price, but even if cashed before maturity, there is no depreciation the bond steadily increasing in price after the first year. As the value of the bond at each year is printed upon the face of the bond, the owner has no uncertainty as to what he will receive for his investment at any time.
California seems to be a little bit slow in the rank of states purchasing heavily of bonds, as it ranks only twelfth. Illinois has steadily held the lead, on May 1 having purchased more than $31,000,000 worth of bonds. California sales reached $12,625,818.75 on April 30th but every office in the southern part of the state has shown a decided increase since then.

Dance Every Week In New Auditorium
Endorsed by city officials and sponsored by Bob Thomas and John Rogers, a dance open to the public will be held in the new civic auditorium on the evening of Saturday, August 15.
The event is the first of its kind to be held in the new building, and according to the sponsors, the dance will be held every week. It will be the only public dance available to Torrance citizens, and a large turnout is expected.
Jack Gledhill, radio and swing band maestro, will furnish the music and from all reports, Gledhill has a lively, well-organized group.
Admission is 75 cents a couple and 40 cents for stags.
Says Mayor William H. Stanger: "Recreation of this type is sorely needed in Torrance, and I am glad that the people here will have the opportunity to find enjoyment without having to motor to neighboring towns."
The proposed dance fills a social and civic need, particularly as regards the youth of the city, who have been forced to leave the community for their entertainment."

Exchanging his druggist's smock for a pair of hiking breeches, his spatula for a rifle, and his prescription blanks for a road map, Leslie L. Prince, proprietor of the Beacon Drug Co., motored last week to the hills back of Monterey, famed rendezvous of the wary deer. With Leslie was his son, his father, J. H. Prince, of San Pedro, and friend Homer Knox, of Wilmington.
After tramping endless weary miles about the upper reaches of the Carmel river, the four some failed to flush a single antlered animal, though the hills were thick with does. Motivated by the principle that where there's Dough there's Bucks, the four hunters continued their stalking for five days, drew four blanks.
Says Leslie, "The only thing we got was a good sunburn. But we enjoyed the outing and the treks through the brush, and maybe next year we'll go again."
Having comparatively better luck than did Leslie Prince and friends is Alden Smith, of Howard's Jewelers, who returned yesterday from the South Lake region of the High Sierras with a creel bulging (did I say bulging?) with trout, none of them shorter than 24 inches . . . I mean 14 inches . . . Oh, what I really mean is 4 inches.
Anyhoo, Alden caught himself quite a few. Mrs. Smith, his only companion, proved her skill at snaring the elusive marine denizens (ain't that cute) when she pulled out a whopper that Alden had previously snared but had been unable to land. Mrs. Smith, too, received her baptism in the ways of a fisherman when Alden, the big meanie, not only made her learn the trick of tying on a leader and getting her snagged line out of the brush, but, would you believe it, taught her how to thread a worm on the hook!
Today Alden is back in harness, however, fully primed and loaded to swap fish stories, but warns all comers that he has some dandy "believe it or not" yarns up his sleeve.
Harvel "Busy Bee" Gutfenfelder threw his organization in high gear the past several months, resulting in being proclaimed a "major" winner in a Goodrich tire selling contest. The prizes were merchandise awards and Harvel won enough stuff, if laid on end, to reach clear across to Jimmy Cramer's Firestone station and back.
Here's what he won: A new Webster's dictionary for the family; a complete fishing outfit for himself; streamlined bathroom scales for wife, Margaret; a red, red coaster wagon for little son Buddy; and a raft of other things too numerous to mention.
Guess I'll quit my job and go to selling Goodrich tires.
To Howard G. Locke goes congratulations on the neat and attractive manner in which he revamped his offices with new linoleum, a counter, curtains at the windows and a complete rearrangement of office furniture. Howard informed me that the counter was installed so cus-

Congressman Eats Lunch with Co-ops. On Border Ave.
First hand knowledge of the problems of the unemployed was gained this week by Congressman Charles J. Golden when he sat down to lunch Tuesday with members of the local co-operative unit on Border avenue. The Torrance unit is widely known for its efficiency and Congressman Golden stated that he desired to obtain data which will be included in a study he is making preparatory to introducing a bill in the next session of Congress for the further assistance of co-operative units.
Other guests at the Tuesday noon lunch were J. W. Post, Sam Levy, L. J. Gilmeister and C. Earl Conner, all officials of the Torrance Community Service Association.

co-ordinated I have divided our membership into several committees and assigned to each a specific subject to consider. When a certain subject comes up for consideration by the board, the chairman of the committee assigned to that subject will be called upon for the recommendations of his committee on that subject. If there is a difference of opinion within the committee, a minority report may be called for. If it seems desirable the committee chairman will then lead a short discussion by all members of the board.
New Assignment
"When a subject has been tentatively disposed of by the board, that committee will be assigned another subject for consideration, and so on until we consider the charter complete. . . . Because you are assigned to certain subjects it is no reason you should not also study any other, or all, subjects that may appeal to you."
This in brief has been the procedure which has been followed, according to Chairman Bell, who expressed his gratitude for the sincere efforts and long hours which members of the board have given to this important matter of drafting the fundamental law of the city. While Chairman Bell was reluctant to give out any details until the final draft had been agreed upon, he did say that the new charter will be much shorter than the one proposed four years ago. We have endeavored to limit our draft to fundamental issues, leaving the less important matters to regulation from time to time. By ordinances adopted by the city council, Bell stated.

Board Members
The fifteen members of the board of freeholders, who have worked without compensation and most certainly deserve a vote of thanks by the citizens of Torrance, are: Carleton E. Bell, chairman; Judge Robert Lessing, secretary; Charles E. Ackley, William K. Adolph, J. Orrin Bishop, Jack O. Boyd, Jane M. Burger, James Corbett, Charles A. Curtiss, Selma C. Keefer, Otto A. Kresse, Selma A. Obole, Irvin C. Rous, Alden W. Smith and Raymond C. Young.
CEDAR TREES BURN
A spectacular blaze which threatened adjacent oil rigs on 230th street near Pennsylvania, was extinguished by the Torrance fire department Sunday night. A grass fire had spread into a row of cedar trees, two or three of which were ignited.
